Personal Bio:

Hayli Dickey was born in Sandy, Utah and raised in Mountain Green, Utah. She graduated from the University of Wyoming College of Law in 2016. While attending school, she served as the student director of the Civil Legal Services Clinic. Hayli and her husband Ben were married in September 2016. They enjoy traveling and hiking together. In her free time, Hayli also enjoys playing sports including soccer, pickleball, racquetball, and volleyball. She speaks Spanish and is active in church community.

Business Bio:

The majority of her practice and experience has been in family law. Before law school she was a court clerk for three years. In that capacity she helped unrepresented parties manage their divorces, guardianships, and custody cases. She is passionate about helping others. She likes to help others understand how they can make better choices by understanding the law and how the law can protect them. She believes in her role as "counselor" and loves to counsel with her clients and be very direct and honest regarding risks and possible outcomes when making choice and considering options. She serves in the Ogden and Salt Lake areas.
