Personal Bio

Scott D. Goodwin was born in Arizona and grew up in Connecticut, Utah and Oregon. A Presidential Scholar at Brigham Young University, Scott graduated magna cum laude and with honors. Scott served for two years as a Deputy Attorney General in the Delaware Department of Justice, where he was an appellate prosecutor. In addition, he served on the planning committee that organized Delaware's first Wills For Heroes clinics, helping to provide free estate-planning for firefighters, police officers, and other first responders.

Scott and his wife Kristin have been married for nineteen years and have four children. They enjoy reading books together and are working their way through a 20-book series on the British navy. He is a diligent runner and runs either a marathon or a mud race every year.

Business Bio

Based in Orem Utah, Scott can serve the needs of clients that are looking for a Delaware law solution to their estate plan. Scott's professional experience includes over five years of experience in trusts and estates. His specialties include fiduciary duties and Delaware trust products, including directed trusts, asset protection trusts, and dynasty trusts.
